Living the Laws and Commandments with Love

"The first Christians were all Jews. In the beginning, they continued to observe many of their traditional customs e.g. about circumcision, about clean and unclean food. As well, they went to the Temple in Jerusalem to pray. But very soon, non-Jews (Gentiles) also became Christians, and these did not have to observe some of the traditions of the Jews. But the Jewish Christians felt uncomfortable about this. When they became Christians did they have to abandon traditions, which were so much part of both their religious and social life? It became a very serious issue in the Apostolic Church.

Matthew's gospel, from which today's passage comes, was written primarily for Jewish Christians and today's reading – and indeed the whole of this gospel – can be seen as words of encouragement for them. Throughout his gospel, Matthew constantly uses the Old Testament to show that the life of Jesus is not a breakaway from past Jewish traditions, but that it is a continuation of all that was foretold by the prophecies of the Hebrew Testament. The life and teaching of Jesus is not to be seen as a new religion; Jesus' life is the natural development of the story of salvation. And Jesus is the climax of that story, because Jesus is the Messiah king and saviour for whom the Jews had been waiting for such a long time (in that sense, our Bible – Old and New Testaments – is really only one book).

So in today's Gospel Matthew emphasises the relation between Jewish Law and the teaching of Jesus. Matthew reassures his readers that Jesus has not come to abolish the Law and the prophets, but to bring them to completion. So, in a sense, the Law still has force. On the other hand, there is much in Jesus' teaching that is completely new. He did not abolish the Law, but he introduced a completely new way of thinking. He did not abolish or change the Law, but went far beyond its literal requirements. For Jesus, just to keep the Law externally is not enough. To be a disciple of Christ, the foundation of our lives must go deeper – to a mutual love. To keep the Law without love is like having a body without a soul. Literally to keep the Law of God and of the Church is not the same as being a good disciple of Jesus.

The Scribes and the Pharisees kept the Law and the Commandments very carefully. But Jesus would say that, though they observed the external requirements of the Law, they did not have the spirit which is the foundation of the Law: to love God and to love the neighbour as oneself. Clearly, this teaching would have made much more impact on a Jewish audience but, even in our Christian lives, it is possible for people to have a very mechanical notion of what is good behaviour. This is revealed often in the way we "go to confession".

To help us understand his meaning Jesus gives six striking examples and, in today's Gospel, we have four of them. In these four examples, Jesus helps us to understand that, to be one of his disciples, it is not enough simply to keep what the Law tells us to do. We do not keep the Law through our behaviour, but through our basic attitudes, our basic values.

When the Pharisees kept the Law, they wanted to obey God, but very often they neglected the needs of others. It was their own "perfection" they were mainly concerned about (just as we can be exclusively concerned about being in a "state of grace"). Even now, some people in confession are sorry because their sins offend God or are instances of personal failure, but often they show little awareness of how their sins hurt other people. For Jesus, we cannot separate our relationship with God and our relationship with people. If we cannot find God in our brothers and sisters, we cannot say that we really love God.

There are not a few Catholics who feel that if they just keep the Commandments they are good Catholics. They often like to ask, "Is this a sin?", that is, is it against the law? Is it a mortal sin or is it a venial sin? If it is "only" a venial sin, then I can do it. But true Christians do not ask whether something is legal or illegal. They love God, they love Jesus, they love their brothers and sisters. Their only concern is how they can serve and love them more and more. They want to work with Jesus and with his brothers and sisters to build the Kingdom of God. No matter how much they do, they know they can still love more and do more and be more.

It is not then a question of law; it is not a question of what I have to do. It is a question of how much more I can do, how much more I want to do. The requirements of the law are way behind."

Rediscovering the Liturgy

"Each Sunday the community gathers to offer praise and thanks to God for the great act of reconciling love made available to us through Christ Jesus. We gather because God continues to call us into relationship, has given us new life in the waters of baptism, anointed us in the Spirit and drawn us to feast at the Eucharistic banquet. God makes us into one body, the body of Christ. In return we enter into the celebration of Mass, joining ourselves to the offering of Christ in his sacrifice unto death. The liturgy enables us to call ourselves Christ's disciples, transforms us into faithful stewards and challenges us to be Christ's living Words made visible in our daily life.

We participate in the liturgy both inwardly and outwardly. Our interior participation opens us to receive within, what we hear, touch, taste, and see exteriorly. Our outward participation expresses the depth of union with God. Inward participation requires silence, reflective thought, and adoration. Outward participation show through participation in song, word, gesture, and movement."

That We May Walk Together

Through a series of pastoral letters to the People of God in Canada, First Nations, Inuit, and Métis, the Canadian Conference of Catholic Bishops (CCCCB) affirmed its ongoing commitment to renewing and strengthening relations with Indigenous Peoples at the national, regional, and especially the local level.

Each of the distinct pastoral letters in this series, entitled That We May Walk Together, is the fruit of many months of listening, dialogue, and encounter with Indigenous Peoples, especially through Listening Circles held in dioceses across the country, the Indigenous Delegation to the Vatican in April 2022, and Pope Francis' Apostolic Voyage to Canada in July of the same year.

Having heard from Indigenous Survivors, Elders, Knowledge Keepers, and Youth, and inspired by the witness of Pope Francis during his "penitential pilgrimage" in Canada, who encouraged Canada's Bishops to continue walking with Indigenous People's along the path of truth, justice, healing, reconciliation and hope, these letters present a framework for local engagement by Bishops with Indigenous Peoples in their dioceses/eparchies, including:

- Continuing to dialogue and discern the most effective mechanism by which respectful and fruitful collaboration can continue at the national, regional and local levels;
- Fulfilling a pledge, made at the 2021 CCCB Plenary Assembly, to undertake fundraising to support locally-discerned projects through the Indigenous Reconciliation Fund (which has raised over $9 million so far and is on track to meet its five-year, $30-million commitment);
- Supporting opportunities to make Indigenous culture

more widely known, including by working with Catholic educational institutions, seminaries, religious houses, and programs of pastoral formation;

- Accompanying Indigenous Peoples in the pursuit of justice, according to the spirit of the United Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples as well as Catholic Social Teaching;
- Working together with local community leaders to address social challenges, including addictions, suicide, violence, poverty, and incarceration;
- Celebrating the great role that women play in many Indigenous faith communities; and
- Identifying new forms of responsibility within dioceses/eparchies to which Indigenous Elders could be invited to share their spiritual wisdom.

In addition, in the Pastoral Letter to the People of God, the Catholic faithful are invited to join their Bishops, in a spirit of love and service, as the local churches take tangible steps toward reconciliation with Indigenous Peoples in view of a new era of encounter and dialogue.

The 4 letters can be found on the diocesan website at this link. If you would like a printed copy, please contact the office.

Support the People of Syria & Turkey

On Monday morning, February 6, an earthquake with a magnitude of 7.8 struck southern Turkey and northern Syria. The death toll has risen steadily to more than 10,000 and thousands injured, not to mention those who are now homeless. In addition, the cold and snow slow down the search for survivors.

Development and Peace - Caritas Canada is mobilizing to provide emergency assistance to affected populations. More than 15 million people will need humanitarian assistance and support. The organization has released $50,000 to quickly support emergency relief in the field. If you are looking to support the people of Syria and Turkey, please consider donating. Thank you for your generosity! Donate here or contact info@devp.org / 514 257-8711.

Spiritual Pondering

The Law of the Lord... Matthew 5:17-37

One of the greatest gifts God has given us is our freewill. Sometimes it is also the most costly gift. Jesus gave us the great invitation to, "come and follow". This weekend's readings remind us of what it takes to follow the way of Christ. The Commandments clearly direct us on the 'how to' live the life of a Christian. As disciples we do our best to follow in the footsteps of Jesus yet as human beings, we are not always successful.

Consider how you follow each of the Commandments... Which Commandments do you find most difficult to follow? The deeper question is why is that? When we can name the 'why' we can address what is holding us back from being the best version of ourselves and continue to move towards a full and abundant life in Christ. Peace. ***

Share your thoughts, if you are so inclined - dwalsh@dol.ca
